

JOHNSON, OF CALIFORNIA, HITS AT OLD GUARDSMEN

Loss of State Due to Slight Given Progressives by Hughes During Visit in August.

BLAMES OTIS AND OTHERS

Little Politicians, He Declares, Prevented Gratification of Malice and Triumph of Prejudice to Success of Republican Candidate.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., November 11.—Governor Hiram Johnson, California's new United States Senator, today for the first time since the election issued a statement on the outcome of the national election, and President Wilson's victory in California.

He slashes hard at the old guardmen of the Republican State Committee, and in accusing the late Harrison Gray Otis, charge of Johnsonian treachery, printed in the Los Angeles Times, accuses Otis of trying to "cuttle the situation" to hide what Johnson declares is his own responsibility for Hughes' defeat in California. He calls Otis a "journalistic ghoul."

"Californians know full well what put this State to Hughes," says the Governor, referring to the slight given the Progressives by Hughes on his visit here in August.

He continued: "They not only affronted Progressives and ignored Progressive leaders, but ignored a State and its record of progressive and humanitarian legislation, a great Commonwealth that had broken its political chains and escaped forever from political bondage."

He stoutly maintains that he did his best for Hughes; that his efforts were frustrated by the old line leaders, that he later counselled Californians to identify Hughes with reactionary politics, compares Wilson's victories in certain districts with the victories of Republican candidates for minor offices, and concludes with this forty-two-centimeter shell:

"If California has been the deciding factor in this election, William H. Crocker, Francis A. Keessling, Harrison Gray Otis and the few acting in concert with them have the proud distinction of having made a President of the United States, and Woodrow Wilson owes them a debt that he can never repay."

CHARACTERISTIC ASSAULT

REPEATE WITH FALSEHOODS

Governor Johnson's statement in part follows: "The Los Angeles Times this morning makes one of its characteristic, and usually reports with the usual falsehoos. When all loyal citizens of Mr. Hughes in California are training every nerve to watching and guarding his interests, only a journalistic ghoul like the Times would seize the particular time for exploiting its malice and mendacity. A few petty politicians, plunk with the Los Angeles Times, and one or two others, as alleged Mr. Hughes and his visit to California, that they were unable to undo the injury."

"When Mr. Hughes came into our State, Crocker and Keessling, aided and abetted by the Times and a small group of bores, created a situation in which he made it appear that Mr. Hughes was entirely reactionary, and that he was neither in accord with nor friendly with California's progress and achievements."

"These little politicians, doing their little politics, preferred the gratification of their malice, and the momentary triumph of their prejudice, to the success of the Republican presidential candidate."

"But it was not ignoring nor even insulting individuals that did the greatest harm; it was ignoring a State and a record of progressive and humanitarian legislation, a great Commonwealth that had broken its political chains and escaped forever from political bondage. Californians saw the miserable conditions from which they had triumphantly emerged, and they had finally emerged, surrounded with an impossible burden of the presidential candidate, and openly proclaiming that none should be permitted near who believed in political freedom. It was the achievement, the progress, the accomplishment, the possible liberty of California that these little politicians ignored and affronted."

OF MEN OF OLD SYSTEM

When Hughes first came to California, the people saw first with amazement, then with indignation, then with increasing indignation, that apparently he was wholly in charge, and those who represented the old system, and the picture presented to our people as one that Crocker, Keessling and Otis and the few acting with them so impressed upon the recollection of our state, that despite our efforts it could not be wholly eliminated."

"There are many things which might be added, many that may still have to be related, but it is a matter of regret that any statement should be necessary at this time concerning the result in California. It would not be necessary but for the indifference of Otis and the Los Angeles Times in their present publications, designed to outblush the situation, so that their responsibility may be overlooked or forgotten."

"If California has been the deciding factor in this election, William H. Crocker, Francis A. Keessling, Harrison G. Otis and the few acting in concert with them, have the proud distinction of having made a President of the United States, and Woodrow Wilson owes to them a debt that he can never repay."

When Mr. Ellington, pharmacist at Cavado's drug store, corner of Floyd Avenue and Robinson street, opened up the store for business last Wednesday morning, he found a collection of pennies and nickels shoved under the door on the presence of the money, and his first thought was that maybe the cash register had been rifled during the night.

He added that he had paid particular attention to experimental motorcycle machine guns, and that several changes would be made in the machines, although they had proved entirely practicable for work in this part of Mexico. He also stated that eight motor cars are being considered if they were found more serviceable.
